

CALL FOR EXPRESSION OF INTEREST

Representatives of Civil Society in the Independent Oversight Board of the Reform, Recovery and Reconstruction Framework (3RF)

Selection of Members for the 3 Vacant Seats

Launch: 20 January 2022

Deadline: 3 February 2022

CONTEXT

In December 2020, the European Union (EU), the United Nations (UN) and the World Bank Group (WBG) launched the Reform, Recovery and Reconstruction Framework (3RF). The 3RF provides a costed and prioritized plan of key actions over the next 18 months across various sectors to support the recovery and reconstruction of Beirut following the tragic explosion of August 4, 2020. The 3RF sets out institutional arrangements that comprise:

- 1- a Consultative Group (CG), to serve as a platform for overarching strategic guidance and direction on implementation and for high-level policy dialogue on 3RF priorities;
- 2- a Partnership Council as the governing body for the Lebanon Financing Facility (LFF); and
- 3- an Independent Oversight Board (IOB) to provide a civil society-led mechanism for broad oversight on 3RF implementation and to hold 3RF stakeholders accountable for 3RF progress.
- 4- a dedicated Secretariat will provide support to the institutional arrangements and help facilitate 3RF implementation.

The inclusion of civil society in the governance and implementation of reform, recovery, and reconstruction is a core principle of the 3RF. Civil society is therefore represented in the recently established 3RF Consultative Group, the LFF Partnership Council and Working Groups.

This Call for Expression of Interest is being issued by the EU-UN-World Bank 3RF Technical Team and aims to facilitate the nomination of three vacant civil society representation (“Civil Society Organizations” – CSOs) in the IOB after the first call for expression of interest on 28 April 2021.

CSOs are non-State, not-for-profit, voluntary entities formed by people in the social sphere representing a wide range of interests and ties. In the context of the IOB, CSOs may include (i) NGOs with expertise related to inclusion, transparency, and accountability, (ii) representatives of academia/think tanks/citizen initiatives or other community-based organizations, and (iii) professional and/or business/private sector associations.¹

CSOs need to take note that participation in the IOB is not compatible with participation in the 3RF Consultative Group. In case a CSO has been selected for the Consultative Group and wishes to apply for a role in the IOB, this CSO needs to withdraw from the Consultative Group.

¹ Please note that individual companies/businesses are not eligible to apply.

THE IOB

The IOB serves as an independent mechanism for representatives from civil society and other institutions to provide broad oversight on 3RF implementation and hold 3RF stakeholders (i.e., government, civil society, and development partners) and implementing organizations accountable for overall 3RF progress.

The IOB's functions are:

- i) Deliver credible, non-partisan descriptions of 3RF processes and assessments of the implementation of the 3RF's guiding principles, in particular: (a) inclusion and leaving no one behind, (b) transparency and accountability, including anti-corruption, and (c) two-way communication and grassroots outreach;
- ii) Conduct independent review and validation of the 3RF's implementation progress by issuing regular opinions, recommendations or reports notably on progress in the implementation of policy actions and reforms;
- iii) Monitor the implementation of CG decisions and follow up actions;
- iv) Provide policy recommendations to the 3RF CG, based on its own findings and inputs from civil society and other stakeholders, and on the basis of documents and reports received from the Secretariat and 3RF stakeholders, including audit reports;
- v) Advise on and provide recommendations on the design and terms of reference of mid-term reviews and final evaluations of the 3RF and the LFF, and contribute to these processes from the IOB's perspectives;
- vi) Provide technical recommendations to the 3RF Secretariat on the operationalization of activities related to communications, citizen engagement, community monitoring and transparency (including potential corruption risks) and suggest priority areas for action. For example, IOB could recommend that Focus Group Discussions (FGDs) be conducted for a specific sector, or a social audit for a project. It could also recommend that an entity be audited, or that targeted/additional communication and outreach may be required to better reach Lebanese citizens;
- vii) Encourage and promote the use of the 3RF's citizen engagement, grievance redress and whistleblower mechanisms;
- viii) Review Grievance Redress Mechanism (GRM) data analysis (e.g., numbers, uptake and resolution trends) and actions, including the resolution of grievances to assure the overall quality of redressal; and
- ix) Communicate decisions, findings, achievements, and concerns to the wider public by sharing of regular and timely information on the 3RF including progress assessments, IOB findings and recommendations, signed Conflict of Interest disclosures, etc.

IOB Membership:

- The number of representatives on IOB: 6 members representing a diversity of expertise related to the 3RF pillars, and core sectors, and the functions of the IOB. In line with the values and principles of the 3RF, gender parity and inclusive/diverse membership in the IOB will be sought. (The four 3RF pillars are: (1) improving governance and accountability; (2) jobs and economic opportunities; (3) social protection, inclusion, and culture; and (4) improving services and infrastructure).

- IOB representation is at the individual level with the approval and endorsement of the organization the individual is associated with. Organizations can choose to nominate a staff, representative from a member organization (for networks), Board member, or an independent representative that will represent them on the IOB.
- Members of the IOB rotate on a yearly basis with rotation of half of its members to ensure overlap between one Board and another. IOB meetings will take place at least quarterly with the option to call for additional meetings as needed.
- Membership in the IOB is on a pro bono basis, i.e., representatives do not receive compensation or payment to serve on the IOB. Technical support in the establishment of the IOB will be made available through the 3RF Secretariat. Targeted support for capacity building and/or coaching to IOB members and/or their organizations may be made available by development partners supporting the 3RF. The IOB has access to information and documentation and be able to advise on the design and later utilize the citizen engagement and monitoring tools that will be put in place by the 3RF Secretariat.
